Yes, my work has become enjoyable again - doing science again. Not to mention it is a nice way to finish up my career at EPA.

Thanks, Phil, for letting me know.
Good luck with the watershed assessment !!
Though filled with high visibility and lots of controversy, it actually sounds to be rather enjoyable and rewarding work.

Hi Chris,
A press release went out this morning announcing EPA's plan to do a watershed assessment in Bristol Bay in response to 9 tribes asking us to consider an advance 404(c). I am the team lead for the technical team doing the assessment. So that forces the decision about participating in Rural Awareness Training. I won't be able to do it. Thanks for including me. I'll be interested to see how it works out.

Yours in place,
Phil

Peggy -- Thanks so very much for your quick response !!

Alan, Sandy, Sue -- Peggy was able to get a phone line for this afternoon at 1:30.

Phil -- I don't know your schedule, but if you're available we'll be talking part of the time about content for the Rural Awareness Training. Let me know if any of the hour of 1:30 - 2:30 works for you.

And I'll also send out a Lotus Notes calendar invitation for those of use who rely on those prompts to remember our meetings.
